SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Can black Americans be mobilized into as powerful a pressure group for the liberation of Southern Africa as American Jews have been for Israel?

This is the dream, admittedly a long way off, of a growing number of black leaders who see the destiny of American blacks linked with the continent from which their ancestors came. As a result of this dream, the African Liberation Day Coordinating Committee was established in January of this year.

The ALDCC, organized as an ad hoc committee, has attracted the most broadly based political group of black leaders to join together for any project in recent memory. Owusa Sadauki, president of Malcolm X Liberation University in Greensboro, North Carolina, is the chairman of ALDCC and Cleveland Sellers, a former Student National Coordinating Committee organizer, is the field coordinator. Members of its steering committee run the gamut from churchmen to Black Panthers and from Congressmen to avowed Communists.

The list includes the Rev. Ralph Abernathy of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Angela Davis, an acknowledged Communist now on trial in California for conspiracy to murder and kidnap; Representatives John Conyers, Jr., (D-Michigan) and Charles C. Diggs (D-Michigan); the Rev. L. Maynard Catchings, communications executive of the National Council of Churches; H. Rap Brown, now in a New York jail awaiting trial for robbery; the Rev. Dr. Charles Spivey of the World Council of Churches; and Black Panther leader Huey P. Newton.

The ALDCC has been active since its formation. A conference on the theme, "The United States and South Africa," sponsored by ALDCC was held in Washington, D. C. on 16 and 17 March. The conference drew more than 300 persons--representatives of churches, human rights organizations, labor unions and individuals "hung up" on Africa. The stated purpose of the conference was to explore ways in which concerned persons and groups in this country could provide support of various kinds for African liberation movements. The committee supported the April 21st rally at the Portuguese Embassy in Washington, D. C. -protesting the bombing of Tanzanian territory. Just recently ALDCC supported the Pan-African Liberation Council and the Harvard-Radcliffe Afro-Student Association (pro-African liberation groups) in their effort to pressure Harvard University into divesting itself of its $21 million in Gulf Oil stock (large investments in Portuguese Angola).

Much of the financial and logistical support for the African Liberation Day Coordinating Committee is coming from church sources by way of the Interreligious Foundation for Community Organization. IFCO was set up five years ago in the wake of the Detroit and Newark riots to help churches put their money where their resolutions were.

With the recent decline of church income and a noticeable white backlash within some denominations, IFCO seeks to continue as a bridge (though increasingly fragile) between minority groups and its supporting white denominations.

On 15 March, a non-tax exempt spinoff organization, IFCO Action, was formed with the avowed purpose of attempting to influence legislation and effect social change. Support of the African liberation struggle is one of its top priorities. It should be noted that IFCO Action was involved in the unsuccessful attempt to prevent the unloading of the Rhodesian chrome in Burnside, La., on 20 March 1972.

The African liberation movement is an issue that lends itself well to the unification of the black community in America. If the movement can entice antiwar advocates, the new left, and "progressive" movements to play a more active role in supporting their cause, the liberationists will be far down the road to creating an utopian Africa solely for black people.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time, or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities

*May, Washington, D. C.

The National Peace Action Coalition which is controlled by the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party and the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice which is influenced by the CPUSA have announced that they will co-sponsor the following calendar of events in Washington, D. C. during the month:

18 May--Planned civil disobedience demonstrations in the halls of Congress.

27 May or 29 May--A mass rally--details unknown as yet.

22-30 May--Disruption of Federal functions wherever applicable.

source: FBI IN 60-6157 11/10/72

It is not believed at this time that these demonstrations will produce great numbers of people or cause significant disruption of the city. Demonstrations in recent weeks (following the Hanoi bombing) have been numerous but poorly attended and highly ineffective. The enthusiasm is missing.

The Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice has also announced the following schedule of activities for the month:

18 May--A massive demonstration will take place at the Capitol, which will include civil disobedience and calls on congressmen.

20 May (Armed Forces Day)--Antiwar demonstrations are planned for military installations throughout the country.

21 May--A massive march and rally are planned at the Capitol to protest the war in Southeast Asia. A few thousand will probably attend.

22 May--A "peoples blockade of the Pentagon" demonstration is planned and will include blockading all entrances to the Pentagon in an act of civil disobedience to protest the War in Vietnam. Some minor violence could result. One of the leading spokesmen of the Pentagon blockade is Rennie Davis who has been an advocate of militancy and civil disobedience in the past.
This demonstration will not be near the magnitude of last
May in Washington but a few fanatics may be troublesome.

*18-19-20 May, Washington, D. C.

Right-wing fundamentalist preacher Carl McIntire, who is national chairman of the March for Victory Committee, has announced plans for a demonstration on 20 May. The purpose of the demonstration is to show support of the U. S. position in Vietnam and to protest President Nixon's visit to Russia.

Demonstrators will assemble at 4th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue at 12 noon to begin a march down Pennsylvania Avenue to the Washington Monument where a rally will be held at 2 p. m. Reportedly Governor Maddox of Alabama will be one of the guest speakers. Leaflets are being circulated which call for five hundred thousand Americans to join in the stand for a free America and a free world. Realistically, attendance will probably not top several thousand. Demonstrations sponsored by the March for Victory Committee in the past have been non-violent.

Recently, McIntire announced plans to hold a press conference at the Pentagon at 12 noon on 18 May. The following day (19 May) will be called Embassy Day at which time they will visit some of the embassies which include Saigon, Philippines, Formosa, Japan and others.

Several thousand participants are expected. The probability is for a legal, non-violent demonstration.

The purpose of the demonstration is to influence President Nixon to intervene on behalf of the suppressed Soviet Jews during his visit to Moscow slated to begin on 22 May 1972.

Recently William M. Perl, chairman of the Greater Washington, D. C. chapter of the JDL met with representatives of the JDL in New York City concerning plans for the demonstrations. J.R.L. IN 405477 8 May 72

The original plans to erect a tent city at Lafayette Park to house the demonstrators has been cancelled. Perl now intends to obtain other housing facilities, including private residences as well as an undisclosed church in the Washington area.

Leaders of the JDL advised they have no specific activities scheduled for 19 May, but small organized and/or spontaneous actions might take place in the vicinity of Soviet diplomatic establishments and/or the residences of Soviet diplomats. Demonstrators will be located at the White House and at Andrews Air Force Base on 20 May, prior to President Nixon's departure for Russia. There are no specific plans for actions on the night of 20 May, after President Nixon's departure for Russia, but the possibility exists that there will be JDL actions in the vicinity of the residences of Soviet diplomats.
